Subject: NADE Mid-Atlantic Committee Mid-Year Report

These last few months have been extremely difficult on the Mid-Atlantic Region. Not only has our region experienced a huge decline in members who renewed, but we have also had trouble with regard to acclimating to the telework environment.

At this time, the only notation that can be made at this time regarding activity is the Washington, DC chapter. Although this chapter continues to be in recruitment mode, our efforts of building the chapter has been stagnate due to the struggles of not being in the office. The executive officers are continuing to meet in an attempt to figure out ways of re-engaging both the active and non-active members, in addition to the office. While the in the past, CADE has always been involved in several philanthropic events, the nationwide pandemic has affected our ability perform these activities as well.

The West Virginia Chapter (WADE) was unresponsive to my attempts of a status update.

The Delaware Chapter (DADE) was unresponsive to my attempts of a status update.

The Maryland Chapter (MADE) was unresponsive to my attempts of a status update.

The Virginia Chapter (VADE) was unresponsive to my attempts of a status update.

The state of Pennsylvania has gained two members this year, however, was unresponsive to my attempts of a status update.
